"Gas Ice" Fertilizer,
Carbonic Gas Seen In Firm's Output

Not only will the Winehaven Chemical company, recently incorporated under the laws of Delaware, and occupying the properties of the California Wine association at Winehaven, manufacture industrial alcohol, the initial output of which is calculated at 2,000,000 gallons per annum but the firm will also manufacture as by products "gas ice" carbonic gas for charging water and fertilizer it was learned from authentic sources yesterday.

NEW PROCESS

The "gas ice" three process of manufacture of which promises to revolutionize refrigeration, is said to resist the inroads of melting by heat for a much longer period than does ordinary ice, and is frozen in small bricks. Details as to the extent of manufacture of the by-products are unavailable at this time.

The plant as it now stands is unsuited to the manufacture of industrial alcohol. The wine vats (Continued on Page 5)

Key Hearing May Be Postponed

It is possible that due to the death of W. J. Broneck, attorney for the Key System Transit company, that there may be a postponement in the railroad commission hearing on the application of the Key company to abandon cross-town lines in Richmond. The hearing had been set for next Tuesday, August 16, in the Richmond city council chambers.

Mrs. C. V. Mero, has returned to Richmond from St. Louis where she visited with her mother.

HOW MONEY GROWS

It is really wonderful how interest, added to regular deposits, even though they are small, counts up. The attractive interest now paid by Building and Loan Associations, which are under state supervision and as strong and safe as anything can be, offers unusual opportunity to those who want to get ahead. He pleaded guilty to the charge, but denied other robberies in the district.

Annual Ladies Night Of Local Rotary Clubs Big Success

The Rotary dinner in the Hotel Carquinez last night had a double significance. It was the annual Ladies Night and it was a homecoming welcome to Walter T. Helms, president elect of Rotary and delegate from Richmond to the International Rotary convention in Ostend, Belgium.

OVER 100 ATTEND
Members and their ladies, numbering more than one hundred enjoyed a banquet and program especially prepared for the occasion. The tables were decorated with pink roses and corsages of pink and white sweetpeas were presented to the ladies as favors.

The speaker of the evening was President-elect Helms. He told of his trip east of the California special over the Santa Fe lines, with 150 delegates from the various Rotary clubs of the state. The trip across the Atlantic was made on the Lancaster, one of the six ships chartered by Rotary. Ostend, where the convention was held, was vividly described by Helms as was the mosque-like Kursaal, with a seating capacity of 6,000 where the meeting occurred.

The convention was opened by King Albert, the democratic ruler of the Belgians, who particularly complimented the American visitors by delivering his speech in English.

CHANGES MADE FOR DREDGING

Due to inclement weather, changes in the plans for dredging the harbor have been made, according to City Engineer E. A. Hoffman. Instead of proceeding to the outer harbor, as originally planned, the dredger has been placed in operation near the Ford site, where the harbor will be dredged to a depth of thirty-two feet.

Hoffman stated yesterday that this work will be completed by September 10, after which the dredger will proceed to the outer harbor. By that time, the winds will have died sufficiently to prevent impeding the work.

Wesley Brotherhood Endorses Bonds

Directly after a talk by Fred D. Parr on the coming bond issue, the Wesley Brotherhood unanimously endorsed the measure last night at the monthly dinner. Parr pointed out the advantage to property owners if the issue passed and indicated that the government would bear the expense of maintaining the channel once it had been dredged by the city.

Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Ross Calfee, accompanied by Emil Esola at the piano. The dinner was prepared and served by Circle No. 3, of the Wesley Ladies' Aid. Rev. Charles Lindemann, pastor of the Wesley Methodist church, announced that the next Brotherhood dinner would be given on the evening of September 16. The committee in charge of the coming dinner will meet in the near future with Chairman Isaac Lester to make arrangements.

RUBBERNECKS NEXT

(By Universal Service)
BALTIMORE, Md., August 12.—A street car equipped with rubber tires and roller bearings was tested in regular service here today.

Jarring and jolting and noise are claimed to have been noticeably reduced by the innovation. Less power is required to operate the rubber-tired car, it was found.

The wheels resemble the usual street car equipment. They are cushioned by rubber tires which circle the hubs and relieve the roller bearings of the jolts caused by the irregularities in the track.

TIGERISH AMBITIONS

THE TAMMANY ORGANIZATION in New York which first took over the Smith presidential candidacy as a feeler has now got to the point where the nomination of Smith is being made as a primary plank in the Tammany platform. Now comes the suggestion that the time is ripe for expanding the Tammany group in New York into a great national body with the Tiger as a political factor throughout the country so steel engraved portraits of Tweed Murphy, Croker and Olvany can adorn the lodge rooms in the Middle Western States.

It is true that Chief Olvany, finding the reaction to this thought most unfortunate, tried to withdraw it, but it cannot be denied that it was in the original program. Tammany is now pledged to a program of "Al Smith or nobody." In no other way can the official Tammany, rejoicing over the report that William G. McAdoo is no longer in the race be construed. Once again, it seems as if the Tammany chiefs had mis-cueed. McAdoo until the introduction of John W. Davis led all in the race for nomination at Madison Square Garden. It would seem poor tactics accordingly that his opponents should take upon themselves the making of the announcement of his retirement.

BIG TIME STUFF

HENRY FORD has squared all accounts outstanding against him because of the anti-Semitic attitude of certain articles in his Dearborn Independent. Public retraction and apology are something that mark a BIG MAN from the small man.

It's big time stuff that Ford has pulled. His reputation for greatness is based on something more than a myth.

The book "We" is worth reading. We read "We" at one sitting enjoying its typographical and editorial errors because they fit in so well with the narrative of a slashing, dashing young cuss who never cared about anything as long as he was getting somewhere. There is a lot of Lindbergh in the first book that young man ever wrote.

One question to be satisfactorily answered is—what are you going to do about a civil service postmaster that has been on the job so long that he no longer extends civil service to his customers?

It is said that a single pair of chiffon hose contain the silk from 333 silkworms. Just think how ever-worked the poor silkworms must be these days.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

This is the birthday of Miss Beryl Mercer and Miss Mary Duncan, both of whom have found success in the theater.

Miss Mercer is very much the daughter of Leo, for the Sun, Moon and Mercury were all merging their rays in that sign when she was born and were on terms of friendship with Jupiter, Uranus and Mars. This gave her a generous and warm hearted disposition and a great deal of enthusiasm and will power. Uranus and Mars were both in Virgo and Venus was just across the border, in Libra, which gave Miss Mercer a keen sense of humor, a critical turn of mind and a great intuition. With her quick mental grasp of a situation, she understands the motives that underlie action and is therefore able to give a life-like characterization of whatever part she is playing. Her success, of course, was assured from the hour of her birth, for both the Sun and Moon were on good terms with Jupiter.

Most Leonians possess a great deal of will power. They often drive themselves more than they should, and this is especially true of business men. By constantly forcing themselves to use their last ounce of energy in the fight against competition, they throw too great a strain upon the heart, which with the Leonian is frequently the most vulnerable point. Their ambition is like a whip driving them on to greater and greater responsibilities and their will power is so great that they are able to force themselves to carry on, until the heart can no longer stand the strain and their activities are cut off entirely. It is said that more men than women die of heart disease. If this is so, it is probably because the average man drives himself by sheer force of will more than the average woman.

TAKE THE AIR AT NIGHT

Science tells us that the average human being inhales 480 cubic inches of air per minute while at rest. Air carries off waste from the blood, carries fresh oxygen to the body and helps the conversion of food into blood.

Then, the physical culturist asks how in heaven's name can you be healthy if you sleep with your windows open only far enough to supply half enough air?

Make or buy window ventilators and quit the stuffy bedroom obnoxious habit.

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison Psy.D.

THE REASONS FOR A HE-GIRL

Every person naturally expresses that urge that is strongest in his heart and that which is expressed most stamps itself upon the body.

Observe this firm set jaw, square face, wide head and thick neck. Science tells us and we all know it's true that the natural mental and emotional characteristics of man are different from those in woman. Man is practical, woman is impractical—man is eager, woman is patient—man is self-controlled, woman is impulsive—man is deliberate, woman is emotional—man is harsh, rough; woman is gentle—man is independent, woman is dependent—man is original, woman is imitative, etc., etc.

The natural physical characteristics of man and woman differ likewise. Man has broad shoulders, small hips, woman has sloping shoulders, broad hips. Man has a wide head, woman has a narrow head—man has a coarse voice, woman has a fine voice—man has coarse texture, woman has fine texture.

When a woman possesses masculine physical characteristics she also possesses masculine mental and emotional tendencies, which is also true with man. The more masculine a man or woman is the more reason, logic, business judgment, financial ability and self control will be exercised.

This illustration shows a woman who is 60 per cent masculine and 40 per cent effeminate in physical development. She will naturally possess and express 60 per cent masculine and but 40 per cent effeminate traits.

She will be positive, aggressive, courageous, vigorous, independent and unyielding.

UNYIELDING WOMEN

Masculine women have strong personalities and are natural born leaders. They demand their rights from every stand, speak in a dictatorial manner, are domineering and bold. An effeminate woman wishes to be admired by the opposite sex—masculine women do not.

Their courtship, love affairs and marriage are little more than business deals. Masculine women are better fitted for the business world than for the home. Their nature is deliberate, unsympathetic and unkind. They dislike to deal with women, children or pets. They care little for beauty except for the effect it will have in securing business. Such persons will furnish their homes in plain, substantial furniture and dress in plain clothing. In dealing with this individual appeal to her practical judgment. She is indifferent to flattery. She would be more successful if she would develop courtesy, kindness and consideration for others.

Worry Causes Wrinkles! Exercise Makes Them Run

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

Questions concerning beauty building through physical culture will receive the personal attention of Lady Grey, beauty culturist, and should be signed by the writer's full name and address, which will not be used without permission. Address her, care of this newspaper.

Mental worry and fatigue will bring more wrinkles than anything else in the world. Learn to relax and you will run the wrinkles right out of your face. When your mind is all curled up in mental angles, do some real active physical exercise. If you're out of sorts, play a couple of sets of tennis. If the world is going all wrong, take a walk in the fresh air.

You will be surprised what a tonic exercise is for the mind. Many offices are realizing this, and twice a day their employees are given a ten minute exercise period. When the bell rings, they drop everything and swing their arms and legs around and get the kinks out of their brain. Then they go back to work with renewed vigor.

Schools have found that a child that is inactive—just so long. Learn to be a wise teacher, who, when she sees the class drooping, opens the windows and sets the children to run around the room or do a few bending exercises.

It's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways. Housewives, who are busy from morning to night with physical activity around the house sweeping and washing and cleaning, can learn a lesson.

Take little periods of relaxation and rest. You will go on with your work with more vigor and pep. Changing the occupation will bring increased energy.

If you've been worrying over the house accounts and find that your little book won't balance, don't sit in front of the columns of figures and fret and fuss. Open the windows, turn on the radio and do a little exercising. Then go back to your figures. You'll find that they have straightened themselves out like an orderly row of soldiers. The kinks in your brain are gone and you can complete your task in half the time.

And when you finish you won't have a new set of worry wrinkles to worry about.

Frene was told by her daddy that she must not be so impatient and to remember that Rome wasn't made in a day.

After a little thought she remarked: "Wasn't eh? You know that God made all the world in six days, so He certainly didn't spend more than ten minutes on Rome."

When a Man Loves

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picture.

SYNOPSIS: Fabien, poor and handsome youth of Paris, is the lover of a rich heiress, Manon. He is the son of a poor, but noble, family. He is the son of a poor, but noble, family. He is the son of a poor, but noble, family.

Manon was so perplexed that she could not think of anything to say. "It seems to have been wrong," continued the King. "Instead of breaking, as I prophesied, your bubble of love has assumed amazing proportions." Louis was enjoying himself to the utmost and Manon's childlike and charming perplexity only added zest to the occasion.

"Your Majesty, please tell me what you mean," she did not seem to understand at all.

The little King suddenly decided that curiosity was a beautiful trait in a woman—he had always hated it before.

"I will tell you—it is a pretty story." The King did not take his licentious eyes from Manon's lovely face as he continued: "It was just at dusk one rainy evening a little over a year ago, I was in my coach driving along the Boulevard when my progress was halted by a young girl and her equally youthful escort, who unconsciously held up the royal procession while they crossed the street, and in so doing, drew the attention of the young lovers to continue on their short path of happiness undisturbed. Now do you understand?" He bent closer to Manon and smiled into her face.

"It is a sweet story, but I do not see where I—"

"You were the young girl," interrupted the King, then waited to see what effect the announcement would have on Manon.

"Oh," she exclaimed in mortification. "What a dreadful thing for us to have done!"

"No. It was beautiful—it amused me then and pleases me even more now that I have seen you in a different light. At what roadside inn did you leave the young man?" The question was filled with implications that Manon did not understand.

"Leave him, Your Majesty?" she inquired in surprise. "I would not leave him for the world—here he is now!" Manon smiled happily as she saw Fabien approaching them with the Duc de Richelieu.

The presentation of the Chevalier Des Grieux to his King was an affair. The fact that the King insisted upon his identity being kept from the people in general forced the Duc to introduce them in pantomime, omitting names. He had previously explained to Fabien that a certain masked gentleman—Fabien understood who he was—desired to engage in a game of cards with him. For two reasons Fabien eagerly accepted the challenge. First, it would put an end to the King's long and animated conversation with Manon. Second, it would give him a chance to match his skill against a man who was reputed to be a worthy opponent.

"I have not been invited, darling," Fabien smiled. "Here is your escort!"

With Fabien's sanction Manon accepted the Duc de Richelieu's arm, and they approached the King.

Fabien pretended interest in his companion's conversation, but out of the corner of his eye he did not lose one point in the little scene between the beloved Manon and the King. For the first time in his life Fabien experienced the pangs of jealousy.

The Comte made an embarrassed retreat so he would not be forced to meet Manon—he wanted to postpone that pleasure until his plans for revenge were better formulated.

When Manon found herself alone in King Louis' presence she inclined her head with unconscious charm and humility as she said faintly, "Your Majesty!" It was the first time she had ever been in the presence of royalty and her manner showed that she was pleased as well as a bit thrilled.

The King was delighted. He saw that she was about to make a sweeping courtesy and grasped her arm. "Not that—I do not wish to be recognized." But I seem to recognize you—I wonder where—Mon Dieu! I know! King Louis continued gazing at Manon with growing admiration.

"You remember seeing me before, your Majesty?" Manon questioned, her pretty brow all wrinkled up in an effort to think. "Most assuredly I do," laughed the King delightedly, "and it is flattering to you that I should."

"Of course, Your Majesty! But you must mistake me for someone else—I am sure I would remember if—if we had talked, yes," interrupted the King. "No, I am not mistaken, no one else in the world has a face like yours."

"Oh, Your Majesty!" Manon was overwhelmed. She succeeded in making a courtesy before the King

husband, a former employee of the Union Oil Company at Alameda, and is the mother of two children.

Authorities charge that the woman has used a series of aliases in her check operations, which they claim, cover the entire state. Most of the spurious checks they claim she has floated were for $10 and $20.

Among her reputed victims in Contra Costa are Robert McNeill, Lafayette, Mrs. E. B. Bledlow, Frank E. Butt and Valley Mercantile Company of Walnut Creek, and Shell Shoe Store and Huggins' Department Store, Martinez. The aliases she is claimed to have used in this county are Meyer and Green. San Francisco police claim the woman has issued many spurious checks in that city and Oakland.

Evidence that aided in her apprehension was the discovery that she had packages shipped by express to Crockett on a collect basis. These, authorities claim, came from establishments where the woman apparently feared she might not be able to issue checks. Bay police claim to have evidence that she tendered numerous spurious checks to merchants in payment of goods, always tendering checks in excess of the amount of the purchase price.

She traveled about the bay district, police say, in rented automobiles.

Officials here have placed a "hold" on Mrs. Hill for prosecution in this county after Alameda authorities have disposed of charges against her there.

Discomfited over separation from her husband, Mrs. Hill, appealed to friends for sympathy, and instead was taught to smoke a strong drug and pass fictitious checks.

That is the story that the young mother of two children told Oakland police inspectors who arrested her after a check career, which they say includes more than 100 offenses in San Francisco and an additional 100 in other bay cities.

Julian J. Meyer, 37, of 241 Telegraph avenue, who was with her at the time of her arrest, was released after questioning. Police of both San Francisco and Oakland are looking for a Presidio soldier and a San Francisco woman who are said to have forced the girl to smoke "leeco-weed" cigarettes. While she was under influence of the drug, she was forced to write checks for amounts ranging from $10 to $20, cash them in making small purchases and give her "friends" the change, she says.

She confessed yesterday to Oakland police that she has been doing their bidding for more than a year.

She was unable to make any approximation of the total.

and other paraphernalia will be removed and equipment for the new industry installed. The company plans to start first with the manufacture of alcohol, and branching out later with the other by-products.

The price paid for the Winehaven holdings is $1,000,000 of which about $600,000 is in cash while bonds and "A" stock in the new corporation will be accepted by California Wine Association for the balance.

STOCK DETAILS

The new company has been capitalized at 10,000 shares of no par Class "A" common stock, really of the nature of a cumulative preferred stock, and 200,000 shares of no par Class "B" common stock.

The directors of the new corporation and their friends have subscribed privately to 20,000 units, each consisting of one share of "A" and one share of "B" at $5.75 per unit. There will be presently outstanding 22,000 shares of the "A" stock and 100,000 shares of the "B."

NO PUBLIC OFFERING

No public offering of stock is to be made but it is understood that in the future a first mortgage bond issue will be floated. A permit has been secured by the corporation for the issuance of its securities.

The property thus acquired from California Wine Association, comprising some fifty-six buildings, several miles of spur track, age, electric locomotives, power-house, concrete wharf to deep water and other equipment has been appraised at a figure well in excess of $1,500,000.

$800,000 TO BE SPENT

A sum of $800,000 more will be spent for necessary equipment, and the engineering department of the Oscar Krenz Copper and Brass Works, Inc., is preparing the necessary plans and specifications. The initial estimate of the cost of the plant is $1,500,000.

The plant production of the new company will be in excess of 2,000,000 gallons per annum and the Winehaven plant, which is located in California, will once again house one of the big industries of the Pacific Coast.

Legal details of the new corporation have been handled by Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro.

UTILIZE WASTE

U. S. ASSURED
WIGHTMAN CUP
ANOTHER YEAR

By ROBERT A. HERFORD

(By Universal Service)

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., August 12.—That Slim Vase of Silver known as the Wightman Cup and emblematic of supremacy in women's tennis seems likely to remain on Uncle Sam's trophy shelf for another year.

Led by the "inspirational" play of their young general, Helen Wills, now recognized as the greatest of the world's women amateurs, the American team took two of the three matches contested on the Forest Hills turf today and need but two more of the remaining four to retain the cup.

Helen Wills opened the play by administering the most one-sided defeat in the history of the Wightman cup play to the brilliant young English player Miss Joan Fry. The dynamic, hard driving girl from the coast required but twenty-four minutes to win from her English opponent, 6-2, 6-0.

Mrs. Mollie Mallory, the Norse woman, who is one of the most colorful players in the women's division and now holds the American championship, surprised with a straight set victory over Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, the captain of the British forces. Mrs. Mallory using her powerful stiff arm forehand stroke swept through the famous internationalist, Mrs. Godfree 6-4, 6-2.

Mrs. John P. Hill and Miss Gwendolyn Sterry saved the English forces from complete rout winning the long doubles match contested after a thrilling uphill battle. The second ranking British doubles team bested Miss Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Alfred Chapin of the United States 5-7, 7-5, 7-5.

The four remaining matches of the seven game series will be played tomorrow. Miss Wills will meet Mrs. Godfree in one singles match. Mrs. Mallory will oppose Miss Fry in another and the two youthful court prodigies Miss Betty Nuthall and Miss Helen J. Snyder of Storm Lake, Iowa.

DOLE FLYER IS KILLED AS BIG
PLANE CRASHES

(By Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 12.—The second fatal crash of Hawaiian flight planes occurred here this afternoon when Capt. Arthur V. Rodgers, British war ace, was killed in a test flight of "The Angel of Los Angeles."

Rodgers, flying alone in a test flight of his specially designed monoplane, was killed when his machine went into a sudden nose dive over Montebello park taking off from the Western Air Express field. Rodgers' parachute failed to open, and he fell 250 feet to death.

Rodgers is the third man entered in the Hawaiian flight to die. Two days ago Lieut. George Covell and A. W. Waggener were killed when their plane, starting from San Diego for Oakland, crashed into an embankment at Point Loma and burned.

Three planes entered in the flight have been wrecked. "The Pride of Los Angeles" crashing at San Francisco bay yesterday. Rodgers' plane was one of the two multi-motored planes entered in the Hawaiian flight contest. It was a monoplane powered with Bristol-Lucifer engines.

resented by Attorneys W. J. Cullinan and Morgan Doyle. During one of the heated arguments raised by Attorney Cullinan in questioning the witness, the prosecuting attorney became excited and the two men grappled. They were separated by Court Bailiff Arthur A. Alstrom.

HECTIC TESTIMONY

Miss Leighton testified that she struggled for more than one hour before the attack was made. Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison testified as to distances and the alleged confession of Louheed in Martinez before him. Deputy Sheriff J. W. Smiley, of Richmond, Deputy District Attorney Hoey and Miss Leighton, when the defendant is said to have admitted the attempt but denied the assault.

FUROR IN COURT

The hearing was further enlivened when one of the spectators became excited over objections raised by Deputy District Attorney Hoey, jumped to his feet and shouted: "You've said enough already." He was immediately squelched by Court Bailiff Alstrom.

SARAZEN CAN SULK IN PEACE
I doubt very much that the harassed talent at Saratoga, which recently was forced to take 1 to 12 on Chance Shot, will mourn the news that Mrs. Vanderbilt's $60,000 Sarazen is to be retired for life.

A barrel of dough was lost on this gelding, which was a stand-out as a two-year-old but developed the temperament of an operative star in later seasons.

Regardless of his reputation, the talent always put a bed down on this fellow. They could never forget his two-year-old races. "This may be his day," they'd figure, but Sarazen would flatten his ears and sulk all the way down the stretch.

Mrs. Vanderbilt named Sarazen after Gene Sarazen, the young golf professional who had just copped the United States open championship in a thrilling finish at Skokie, outside of Chicago.

Gene felt a pleasurable thrill at the distinction when Sarazen was moving down all opposition as a two-year-old, but Gene had little to enthuse over later. For Sarazen became the most notorious sulk in the game. He was as unreliable as a hair tonic.

Sarazen's earning powers, of course, end with his active racing. A gelding has no stud value, and it was this fact which made his purchase price of $50,000 a sensational racing document. Man of War and other horses of reputation made tremendous money in the stud, but geldings have no value in retirement.

Sarazen, the sulker, will pass his remaining days gazing on the Widener farm, near Philadelphia, and perhaps old brood mares will hold him up as a horrible example to their spindly legged colts as Sarazen, the peevish chestnut, passes near them.

A YARN OF A TIRE GISHER

WHILE Sarazen is being permanently retired, far from the pounding hoofs and bugle call to post, another great horse, Black Gold, is being prepared for a come-back by Mrs. R. M. Hoots of Oklahoma.

Black Gold, to me, will always be the most romantic thoroughbred of the American turf.

He was owned by the widow of an Indian chief who had amassed a fortune unwittingly through the discovery of oil in the Indian lands in Oklahoma.

Like the rest of his tribe, R. M. Hoots overnight became a millionaire. Upon his death his fortune shifted to his wife, an Indian woman.

The horse which later became internationally famous was named, fittingly enough, after the oil that made his purchase possible.

Oil is called black gold, for the black torrents are actually gold, so far as value is concerned.

Black Gold, thus named, owned by the widow of an Indian chief, had blundered into amazing wealth through the accident of locale, went to Louisville and won the Kentucky Derby, the blue ribbon even a horrible example to their spindly legged colts as Sarazen, the peevish chestnut, passes near them.

Every Indian in the tribe had sentimental bets riding on Black Gold that day and they cleared up fortunes.

The whole thing reads like a fantastic tale coined by an impossible imagination, doesn't it? Yet that is the story of Black Gold. Now they are trying to ready him for another whirl past the long markers. And regardless of what develops, those wealthy Indian oil barons will bet on him.

PICKED HIM ON A WIRELESS TIP

I was down in Miami, Fla., the year Black Gold became a sensation. At the time I was doing a sport column for the Miami Beach tribune.

A little Jewish chap from Chicago tipped me off to a sure thing in the New Orleans Derby, which was to follow in a few days. "I think very highly of that fellow, although no one in the East has given him a chance."

Sure enough Black Gold, the unknown, won at New Orleans and his price in the winter books was hammered down from 50 to 1 to 25 to 1.

Again the little Chicago chap approached me. "If you want to make a bet with your readers, pick Black Gold to win the Kentucky Derby," he advised earnestly.

So I did. I remember the story well. It opened up with a punch line as a lead: "Black Gold, Black Gold, Black Gold," it read, and then went into the story.

Months later I had returned North, and while I was back North Black Gold won the Derby.

I have often wondered what those Miami readers must have thought, if indeed they remembered the prediction. They probably figured I was the greatest horse expert in the world, giving them a Kentucky Derby winner months in advance of the race, but actually I knew little or nothing about the turf and just used the prediction on a slack day in want of something else to write.

No much for expiring.

FISHING

Yosemite National Park
Wawona—Stream and lake fishing are both good. A party of five from Fresno came in on Saturday evening; they took saddle horses early Sunday morning so as not to make a hard day of it. They came for sport, they said, and not work. They came back in the evening, each had the limit of Eastern Brook and Rainbow. The party went on to Fresno that evening so as to be ready and fit Monday morning.

Southern Oregon
Klamath Falls—Big boys rising to fly on Diamond Lake now in morning and evening fishing, but many still using spinners.

opa, and Baron Von Huenfeldt, a civilian passenger who will fly on the Bremen.

To New York
Only the most unfavorable weather can now postpone the flight. The two Junkers planes will fly over Crookland, England, thence over the southern tip of Ireland, and then to the north coast of the Atlantic, where the later turning to the southern coast of Newfoundland, thence to New York and Mitchell field.

33 Hour Trip
The Europa will land first at Mitchell field, a throw of the dice today decided this. But while the Europa will end its flight at Mitchell field, there is every possibility that the Bremen may continue to Chicago, providing the gasoline supply holds out.

STOCKHOLDERS OF JENNY WREN MEET MONDAY

proceeded with the hearing. Attorney Lackenbach asked that he record note the departure of Trapp and his counsel, who then left the room.

"Hearing Mockery"
"It would serve no purpose to go through the mockery of a formal hearing," read, in part, a formal statement prepared by Trapp's counsel and offered as the meeting convened.

"The purpose of a hearing is to take testimony pro and con to determine whether or not the petition should be granted. In view of the fact that the state corporation commission has, in effect, announced its decision in advance of the hearing, the petition of Jenny Wren Stores, Inc., for a certificate authorizing the sale of its debenture notes is hereby withdrawn and dismissed."

Hearing To Continue
Deputy Corporation Commissioner Ellis announced to the 50 or 60 stockholders, who crowded the assembly room, that the applicant did not have the legal right to dismiss the proceedings and that the hearing would continue. The matter was taken under submission after the commission's auditors had offered a summary of their inquiry into the financial status of the chain store company.

A call for a stockholders' meeting was made by S. C. Hart, San Francisco hotel man, after the adjournment, and a special committee was formed to meet next Monday night at Hotel Bellevue to complete the arrangements. Those serving with Hart on the committee are L. L. Brown, 1240 Jones street; M. C. Maunders, 345 Franklin street; S. G. Bratkevich, 700 Hopkins avenue, Oakland; Mrs. Camilla Lantz, 6205 Harwood avenue, Oakland; and Mrs. Augusta Burkett, 198 Hale street.

omic and agricultural conditions on the continent and England. He contrasted the archaic methods of agriculture in Europe with women and children working in the fields, oxen used for plowing and grain cut with the cythe, with methods employed in this country.

Beware! Deadly Ailments Lurk At Oakland Airport!

(City Universal Service)

OAKLAND, August 12. Have you got airnexus?

No, Mabel, it's not something you wear; it's an ailment.

If you are one of the thousands who have strained the upper portion of the spinal column watching airplanes, you'll know what is meant by airnexus.

It is something new. Newer even than Honolulu flights.

Airnexus is prevalent wherever airports occur.

The symptoms appear after you have stared upward at airplanes for a couple of hours. You feel a crick in the neck. If you are a person of family, there may be a family row next morning.

You don't feel so good. Perhaps you have a subluxation!

That word was supplied by Dr. C. C. Thatcher, chiropractor. Subluxation of the vertebrae means partial displacement of small bones.

You may step jarringly from a very small height and get a subluxation. By staring upward too long you may get a subluxation airnexus.

This is what may take place: "The small nerves which affect the muscles of the face and eyes may be affected. The trifacial nerve especially, which is an important nerve connection the upper vertebrae and portions of the face," said Dr. Thatcher.

The nerve also leads to the eye ball and the nasal passage. "This may lead to loose eyes.

"Wry neck, a condition caused by the pressure on the nerves of the upper vertebrae, is a not common ailment.

"Persons suffering from any of these conditions after watching airplanes for a long time should seek treatment, providing nature does not bring about a readjustment."
